

Mitchell, R. W., Nicholas, T. S., & Miles, H. L., (1997, Eds.). Anthropomorphism, anecdotes and animals. Albany: State University of New York Press.

Includes:

Foreword

Frans B. M. de Waal

PART I. ATTITUDES, HISTORY, AND CULTURE

Taking Anthropomorphism and Anecdotes Seriously

Robert W. Mitchell, Nicholas S. Thompson, and H. Lyn Miles

Dogs, Darwinism, and English Sensibilities

Elizabeth Knoll

Why Anthropomorphism Is Not Metaphor: Crossing Concepts and Cultures in Animal Behavior Studies

Pamela J. Asquith

PART II. THE NATURE OF ANTHROPOMORPHISM

Amorphism, Mechanomorphism, and Anthropomorphism

Emanuela Cenami Spada

Anthropomorphism: A Definition and a Theory

Stewart Elliott Guthrie

Why Anthropomorphize? Folk Psychology and Other Stories

Linnda R. Caporael and Cecilia M. Heyes

PART III. ANTHROPOMORPHISM AND MENTAL STATE ATTRIBUTION

Anthropomorphism and the Evolution of Social Intelligence: A Comparative Approach

Gordon G. Gallup Jr., Lori Marino, and Timothy J. Eddy

Panmorphism

Daniel J. Povinelli

Anthropomorphism and Scientific Evidence for Animal Mental States

Hugh Lehman

Anthropomorphism in Mother-Infant Interaction: Cultural Imperative or Scientific Acumen?

Robert L. Russell

PART IV. ANECDOTES AND ANTHROPOMORPHISM

Anecdote, Anthropomorphism, and Animal Behavior

Bernard E. Rollin

What's the Use of Anecdotes? Distinguishing Psychological Mechanisms in Primate Tactical Deception

Richard W. Byrne

Anthropomorphic Anecdotalism As Method
Robert W. Mitchell

A Pragmatic Approach to the Inference of Animal Mind
Paul S. Silverman

PART V. INTENTIONALITY

Varieties of Purposive Behavior
Ruth Garrett Millikan

Expressions of Mind in Animal Behavior
Colin Beer

PART VI. CONSCIOUSNESS AND SELF-CONSCIOUSNESS

Self-Awareness, with Specific References to Coleoid Cephalopods
Martin H. Moynihan

Silent Partners? Observations on Some Systematic Relations among Observer Perspective,
Theory, and Behavior
Duane Quiatt

Common Sense and the Mental Lives of Animals: An Empirical Approach
Harold A. Herzog and Shelley Galvin

Amending Tinbergen: A Fifth Aim for Ethology
Gordon M. Burghardt

A Phenomenological Approach to the Study of Nonhuman Animals
Kenneth J. Shapiro

Anthropomorphism, Anecdotes, and Mirrors
Karyl B. Swartz and Siân Evans

PART VII. COGNITION

Cognitive Ethology: Slayers, Skeptics, and Proponenets
Marc Bekoff and Colin Allen

Animal Cognition Versus Animal Thinking: The Anthropomorphic Error
Hank Davis

Anthropomorphism Is the Null Hypothesis and Recapitulationism Is the Bogeyman in Comparative Developmental Evolutionary Studies
Sue Taylor Parker

PART VIII. LANGUAGE

Anthropocentrism and the Study of Animal Language
Judith Kiriazis and Con N. Slobodchikoff

Pinnipeds, Porpoises, and Parsimony: Animal Language Research Viewed from a Bottom-up
Perspective
Ronald J. Schusterman and Robert C. Gisiner

Anthropomorphism, Apes, and Language
H. Lyn Miles

PART IX. COMPARING PERSPECTIVES

Anthropomorphism and Anecdotes: A Guide for the Perplexed
Robert W. Mitchell